St. Michael's SATT Team Receives Interprofessional Collaboration Award

Members from all areas of St Michael's Hospital came together in June 2013 to celebrate the contributions of their colleagues. The Stroke Assessment and Treatment Team (SATT) was honoured for their contributions to health disciplines through the Interprofessional Collaboration Award. This is awarded to an innovative team for their outstanding contributions to patient care. SATT was acknowledged for their dedication to developing the "team" and building a quality practice environment.

The SATT Team is an interprofessional team with stroke expertise and knowledge working on the stroke unit. They provide patient assessment and treatment as well as consultation services as required. SATT is involved in leadership and education to support development and implementation of best practice stroke care for persons with stroke within St Michael's Hospital and South East Toronto Stroke Network.

Beverly Bulmer, Director, Health Disciplines Practice and Education; Michelle Ellis, Registered Dietitian; Jodi Skinner, Speech Language Pathologist; Sandeep Gill, Clinical Nurse Specialist; Melissa Alves, Physiotherapist; Leah Christie, Occupational Therapist; Judy Kelly, Discharge Planner; Lori Whelan, Professional Practice Leader; Ella Ferris, Executive Vice President, Programs, Health Disciplines & CNE.
